

Armani GrL xOx (7:52:24 PM): "why moses is so freaking hot"

Armani GrL xOx (7:52:26 PM): 700 words.

Armani GrL xOx (7:52:27 PM): now.

Moses Ahn, a 2003 Columbia University graduate, and now a graduate student at Drew University, has been fancied by many women during his lifetime. He is also said to be attractive by members of both sexes:

ChickenOrb (4:18:09 AM): moses really is pretty good looking

ChickenOrb (4:18:17 AM): he kind of grows on you pa U chu (4:18:20 AM): moses is the stud

Which of Moses' characteristics invoke such nice compliments? Is it a single element, a combination of elements, or is it everything about Moses that makes him hot?

First, we must define the word "hot." What about a person makes him or her hot? Is it purely physical, or does it also involve the person's traits? Naturally, attraction to a certain person varies among the general population, thus spawning sites such as www.hotornot.com. But is there a common definition that everyone can compromise to? Do certain definitions of "hot" hold true across the board?

Without doing research, it is not possible to answer the questions that were presented, but instead, the author will share his views on the definition of being "hot." Physical beauty is a part of the formula for hotness, but it does not end there. Unfortunately, that also means that if you're not physically beautiful (whatever that means), then you cannot be hot. So does Moses pass this first test? According to ChickenOrb, he does. Granted that a sample size of one is a statistical nightmare, we'll make an assumption that ChickenOrb's comments are true.

However, after the first test, we encounter an arena of gray lines. What else makes someone hot besides their looks? There are no right or wrong answers, and there is no common answer that will be found on all girls' wishlists. How can I make such a bold statement? The answer is simply because we are all unique and have different wants. But for the sake of this paper, I will investigate a few qualities girls I interviewed said were characteristic of a hot guy.

Some qualities stated were a sense of humor, being well dressed, being tall, having charisma, and having more leg hair than them [girls]. We'll tackle the easier ones first. Since Moses is six feet tall and the average height of women is less than six feet, we'll say Moses is tall. Another easy one is the quality about leg hair. Although Moses claims to have leg hair, they are not visible to the naked eye, which makes him the envy of all girls, who clearly have more leg hair than he does. Does Moses dress well? The following two pictures show that he is capable of dressing "well" although we will not discuss the definition of well for the sake of the author's sanity.

Picture 1: Moses dressing “well”

Picture 2: Moses dressing “well”

What about charisma? From the following picture, I can deduce that he does have charisma, as evidenced by his actions and Jess' reaction.

Picture 3: Charisma? I think so.

Lastly, does Moses have a sense of humor? From my personal experience, I haven't found him to be extraordinarily funny, but I reckon he does have some sense of humor. So we'll give him half a point for this.

Out of the five characteristics listed, Moses has three and a half. Is this enough to be considered hot? Where is the line drawn? Once again, this cannot be answered because everyone has different standards and some lines were drawn even right after the test of physical beauty. Also, everyone has had different interactions with Moses. These experiences lead to different understandings of him as a person, which influence his hotness because the more you get to know him, the more qualities you might discover you liked about him. Of course, the opposite also holds true, and you might think he's less hot after you got to know him.

But I digress because the topic of study is why "Moses is so freaking hot." Inherent in that statement is the fact that he is hot, so why is he hot? Some reasons for his hotness are attributed to the fact that he fulfills some of the qualities of being hot, and he passed one test of physical beauty. Are there more reasons why he is hot? The answer to that question will vary, but I would like to point out one more quality Moses has that makes him hot. He cares about his friends. That answer might seem trivial, but he sincerely cares. He will ask you how you are really doing and get deeper than the usual "What's up?" A person who builds strong friendships, who is always available to listen and pray with you, and whose heart reflects the love of Jesus, are qualities that make Moses a solid hottie.